Christ the King Regional School receives funding for full electrical upgrade

Haddonfield, NJ--- The Christ the King Foundation, Inc. awarded a grant to Christ the King Regional School, in Haddonfield, to fund the complete upgrade of the school's electrical system. When the students, administration and staff returned from their Easter break, it was to a school fully capable of handling any electrical requirement they could imagine. The work, performed by brothers Nate and Joe Schooley of Schooley Electric, Inc. in Cherry Hill, will eliminate power overloads, provide more energy efficiency, and allow for future capital and technological improvements. The CKRS community will directly benefit from these enhancements immediately with the added advantage of addressing all future needs.

Christ the King Regional School principal, Sr. Michele DeGregorio, fmij, is very excited by the upgrade. She said, "The electrical upgrade may not be a very visible project, but it provides the essential foundation for expanding and building upon the programs that will enrich our students. Our dedicated teachers and staff are always looking to move education at CKRS to the next level and this puts us right where we want to be to take that step." She expressed her appreciation to Christ the King Foundation president, Bill O'Callaghan, upon receiving the generous grant, saying, "On behalf of the students, faculty and staff, I would like to express our immense gratitude to the Christ the King Foundation, Inc. and Schooley Electric for helping us forge ahead in educating our students for the 21st Century."

The Christ the King Foundation, Inc. was founded in February 2008 as a tax-exempt entity whose primary mission is to support and maintain the academic excellence of Christ the King Regional School. In particular, the Foundation aims to provide grants for capital improvements, financial support, tuition assistance, and support for other educational programs while raising community awareness. The Foundation sponsors an annual Monte Carlo Casino Night each spring as well as other fundraisers throughout the year to raise funds to satisfy its mission. The funds used to support the school's electrical system upgrade were raised through these efforts.

Christ the King Regional School is a premiere catholic school located in the Diocese of Camden. Since its inception in 1940, its mission of providing a sound, superior education within a Catholic environment has been unwavering. It promotes the intellectual, social and spiritual growth of each of its students within a continually updated physical plant, using state-of-the-art technology.
